8 substitutes to rice cheaper, more nutritious

By Joseph R. Uy

IF YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO BUY rice for your next meal, try rice crops such as potatoes and corn as replacements.

Take that tip from Dr. Joseph R. Uy, a crop expert, who said Filipino households that could not keep up with the spiraling cost of rice actually had eight alternatives to eat on their tables instead of the rice-rich staple.

Among the substitutes that Filipinos can start introducing into their diet are cassava, sweet potatoes, yams, potatoes, finger and sweet (all rice crops), and soybeans and white corn, and the series, the director of the crop

CARABANG, CAMARGUES SER—WHAT'S the buzz in this remote, beach-club municipality?

Reasons of Hollywood stars being filmed on the peninsula's beaches of powdery white sand are told by word of mouth and in entertainment centers, blind items, blogs and online discussion boards.

"It's 'Survivor,'" the locals say quickly, even if many of them might not have seen a single episode of this famous reality game show.

"Survivor," which isolates its contestants in the wilderness to compete for cash and prizes, and is known to choose exotic environments as its location, has been taping its French version's next season here for 28 days now.

Tourism and provincial government officials are tight-lipped about the taping of "Survivor: Phoenix" in Carmona because of a confidentiality agreement signed with its producers.

And the location shoot has been closed off to keep kibitzers away.

Few were heeding the warning on the wall here, until Agricul-

If Filipinos, and especially traders, appeared skeptical, it was because it was harvest time and there seemed to be a lot of rice around.

Mariners driving to beach resorts for the Easter holidays could see the usual palay (unhusked rice) being dried on concrete roads under the scorching sun so that when added the rice grains would be whole and unbroken. House body OKs CARP extension

By TJ Burgeon

LEGISLATORS YESTERDAY approved a bill at the committee level, extending the Comprehensive Agrarian Reform Program for another five years with a P200-billion funding, shifting checks from former groups.

After a two-hour-long spirited hearing, members of the House committee on agrarian reform voted 14-0 to approve the bill before a jumpstarted round of Senate debates, peasant and agrarian reform advocates.

The crowd, which also included lawmakers, erupted into cheers shortly after the vote, which was presided by a motion by Congresswoman Rhea Singson. But some lawmakers did not completely agree with the proposal.

"This is just a simple extension. So this is just a partial victory for us. The tough task of building for customers has already been done," Congressman Blasillas of the progressive group (GDP) said.

Philippines said to be an extension.

Agribusiness Secretary Manuel Pangalanan also welcomed the approval of the measure, and said he expected President Macapagal-Arroyo to confirm it is support to ensure to support farmers' interests.

"We are optimistic that this will be passed before the end of June," he said in a statement.

The President asked the congressmen to prioritize the passage of the measure during last Tuesday's Legislative Executive Development Advisory Council in Malacañang, according to a statement.

Congressmen had passed to pass a bill about CARP's extension in April this year so the government could complete the distribution of more than one million hectares of agricultural land.

The bill would be submitted to the committee on rules, which will then schedule it for plenary debate.

"Today's meeting is the last stage for the passage of the bill. If our leaders delay it, we will have to wait for another time," Pangalanan said, adding in an interview.

"We will try to pass it before June," he added.

The measure, a reauthorization of 15 bills, seeks to extend CARP specifically the last requirement and deadline, up to 2013, and authorize for appropriation of P1.6 billion for this

Trillanes pretrial postponed

THE TRIUMPH OF THE REBELLION CASE against Gen. Antonio Villaverde IV and the soldiers who seized the Francisco Morazan hotel has stirred an furor across to June 15 in support of the defense.

Toronto lawyer Toronto Francorp advised the Mahood agent to give the Coast of Synops sufficient time to rule on his petition, whereupon the agent was able to obtain Judge Fries (Alameda) ruling finding probable cause to indict Williams and his co-conspirators on subversive charges.

Originally scheduled yesterday, the potential for the rebellion has been cast to June 4.

The potential phase involves demonstrations, among other things, the possibility of a plea bargain, stipulations of facts, reading of evidence, and nature of stipulations to the admission of evidence.

Place: Birmingham

Franchise, who represents Tillman and 18 other junior officers calling themselves the Magnolia group, said his rhetoric never met with strong support.

Williams, Wpg. Gen. Franko Lin, who is represented by lawyer Thomas Stashenko, and 17 junior officers, are facing rebellion charges before a district court.

Franchisees said the church continued that its abolition took place during their takeover of the January hotel at the Elkhart National district in Dec. 28, 2007.

Meanwhile, the small container works for the other case that Williams faces, the July 2005 failed crop, also known as the Oakwood incident.

Now, Rochelle's situation is expected to take the wind out of the 9 a.m. hearing as mostly about the negotiations on the height of the towers of the Oakwood Hotel by the hotel officials on July 27, 2003.

Only 22 accused are left in custody—will after the April 6 anniversary of the case justice officers who pleaded guilty in the case of James Jones.

Two Enders, Captain Will Klentzmann and Tony DeCicco, were accused of holding property, or up to $10 years in jail, while some were charged with 15 years, others more.

The other officers who pleaded guilty were Captains Albert Bailey, John Andler and Alvin Elmer, and Lieutenants Lawrence Lutz, James, Florence, James, Glen, Philip, Brian Sney and Glen Higgins Jr.

Just days after they were sentenced, the nine publicly asked to be pardoned by President Margaret Thatcher.

Coal lack hikes Meralco bill with China's strong demand

By Joseph A. Dela Cruz
PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER
April 23, 2008

There are still concerns on the supply of coal, which means more of the power plants running. Some plants were also out last month. Plus the last fuel has gone up. All these factors add up, "he said in a telephone interview yesterday.

"There's a power plant run on bunker fuel, but most of which has shut down due to the cost of the fuel," he said. Three power plants run on natural gas, the price of which is based on crude prices.

Global coal shortage
A drop of between 15 million and 40 million tons in global coal supply is forecast this year amid overhauling demand for the fuel, resulting in skyrocketing prices, according to analysts and oil industry executives.

China, one of the world's top coal producers, has itself become a net coal importer, with production not being able to keep up with rising demand.

FF, 100
Supply constraints in South Africa coupled with problems in Australia pose a threat to gas production on global coal supply.

The Philippines, which depends on mostly on coal for its electricity power generation, is also affected by the global supply crunch.

"There's a coal supply shortage, the demand is rising," says Power Corp. (Davao) said it had enough to generate a disruption in its operations.

"We have enough coal inventory in our plants, and in fact, in (the Meralco) power plant, our coal stocks exceed the forecast consumption of the plant," Napegal said in an interview.

Normal coal supply next week
The state has said it will order coal-fired power plants in Luzon—4, 1,280 MW total in Pangasinan, 400,000 MW in Marikina and 733,000 MW in Pagadian in Zamboanga—would have normal coal supply next week.

"Some of the disruptions, like those in Cebu and Davao, have been delayed, while the others have already been resolved," Napegal said.

Meralco hedges at peak hours
There have been a higher average price for coal—$6.60 per ton, says Napegal. It's 75¢ per ton in February, according to Napegal.

It also did not help that the Luzon had already bought some of its own coal at a peak price of $6.60 per ton, according to Napegal.

"We don't have a coal supply shortage," he said. "We don't have a coal supply shortage," he said. "We don't have a coal supply shortage," he said.

2nd highest monthly price
Power prices in the electricity market skyrocketed by P4.746 per kWh in February 2008, the second highest monthly average price since the power market opened commercially on June 28, 2006.

The second highest monthly price was P4.746 per kWh in February 2008, the second highest monthly average price since the power market opened commercially on June 28, 2006.

The electricity market

The high price was due to the main reason for higher generation costs for the month, according to Napegal.

"The high price was due to the main reason for higher generation costs for the month, according to Napegal."

Transmission cost
It is higher power costs than the power costs are enough to maintain rates also went up this month to reflect the National Transmission Corp.'s Energy Regulatory Commission-approved transmission rates for 2008.

The transmission rates for 2008 were approved by the Energy Regulatory Commission-approved transmission rates for 2008.

According to the April, which include those for generation, transmission, system loss and so-called net—household rates (NHR) a month will be from $10.00 to $11.00, a household consuming 50 kWh a month will pay an additional $10, and a family using 50 kWh a month, $10.

Call for investigation
The increase in Meralco's April cost prompted the national Congress to demand an investigation into the power company's operations.

"The power company's operations are being investigated," he said. "The power company's operations are being investigated," he said.

Executive vs legislative
This might create another controversy between the legislative and executive departments, "Gueza told the lawmakers.

Senior Minority Leader Raula Gueza's motion to refer the JMEI investigation was approved by the House plenary in March.

The motion stated by Gueza was controversial, considering the alleged pro-Chinese and pro-Filipino in the South China Sea, and attempts to fight off the possibility of having oil and gas reserves in the area.

Bayan Muna Rep. Teodoro Calixto in March said there were suggestions that the JMEI was not to the Chinese and to people that were in the Philippines after a meeting signed in 2004.

Gov't warned of rice mill closures

URDANETA CITY—UNLESS THE GOVERNMENT buys from them, big rice mill owners in Pangasinan have warned of a shortage if they would be forced to stop their operations because nobody would buy their grains.

The rice millers, who are busy in the rice harvest season, said rice dealers in their towns and other nearby areas have stopped buying from them for fear of being asked by government agencies to inspect or demolish.

The Department of Justice has created the Anti-Rice Hoarding Task Force to monitor rice hoarding in the country.

"It's a chain reaction. Because of the hoarding, rice dealers no longer wanted to have large rice stocks in their warehouses. They now estimate only 30 to 35 percent of their stock is available," said Jose Antonio Sison, Sr., president of the National Rice Traders Association.

Sison said the government is imposing rice at P2,000 (P25,714.000 per metric ton), which they said is around P2,200 per bag.

The rice millers said this price is higher than the P1,000 selling price of locally milled rice.

The letter was signed by Gelsa Lu, Steven Lantano, Melvin Arce, May Patricia, Neil Arce, and others.

"They said if the government would buy rice from them, the country would not lose its 'rice granary' status," said the signatories.

"Today price will again fluctuate," they said.

They said with a good price, they would be encouraged to produce more rice, instead of shifting to other crops, like corn, which has a higher buying price.

Urduja Carandang, president of the National Rice Traders Association, said the government should buy rice from them to stabilize the market.

COA finds irregularities in oil spill funds

By Mañal P. Sison Jr.
Bureau Staff

MANILA—THE COMMISSION ON GOVERNMENT ACCOUNTS (COGA) has found irregularities in the use of P40 million in taxpayer money to help victims of the oil spill in the Philippines, among others.

An 18-page report of the COGA, dated Feb. 25, 2008, and another 97-page report, dated March 10, 2008, were released to the public.

The provincial government reported that it released P15.5 million to 18 coastal municipalities and P34.5 million to 17 coastal cities.

The COGA report, however, said the provincial government also released P1.5 million in 17 coastal municipalities that were not listed as suffering from the oil spill.

The report said the release of P1.5 million in the 17 towns included rules on the use of taxpayer money.

Manuel Mendoza, provincial administrator, said the release of the money was a relief.

Mendoza said the PDCC report was not an accurate basis to determine whether or not a town was suffering from the oil spill.

While the oil spill didn't reach the shores of some towns, they also suffered because of lower fish catch, he said.

The COGA report also noted a delay in the purchase and distribution of relief supplies worth P7.5 million.

"Had the equipment been acquired earlier, the equipment and supplies could have reached the worst impact of the oil spill," the report said.

It also noted a P1.5 million exception in the purchase of boat engines worth P4.2 million.

Africa gets impatient over crisis

ROBINSON—SOUTH AFRICAN foreign policy leader Jacob Zuma called on Tuesday for African action to resolve Zimbabwe's crisis, amid signs of increasing anger and impatience with President Robert Mugabe.

Months earlier, southern African states refused to allow a Zuma-led, regional, arms-to-humankind Zimbabwean mission, to support a limited action towards Mugabe for long-pending negotiations, including withdrawal of arms.

The action followed a tougher approach by the region, which has been criticized, particularly by the United States, for not doing more to end a three-year-old civil war in the south. Zuma said he is now ready to do more to end the war.

Opposition leader Morgan Tsvangirai said he was for the war and Mugabe's Zimvira rule in 2007.

Pharex eyes key win vs Toyota Otis today

By Marc Anthony Reyes

PHAREX TRIES TO ENHANCE ITS QUALITY OF PLAY when it takes on Toyota Otis today in the 2008 PBA Governors' Cup quarterfinals. The match will kick off at 7 p.m. at the Araneta Coliseum in Quezon City.

With a hard-fought win in the first round, the Pharex team is looking to build on its momentum and secure a spot in the semifinals.

"We have to improve our defense and offense," said Pharex coach Ramon Fernandez.

Nestea Beach Volley finals on

By Francis T.S. Delosa

BORACAY—THERE IS ONLY ONE PLACE to go to when looking for the best beach volleyball teams in the country today.

Here, in this sublime island paradise known for its pristine sand and cool, gaudy where cool, sunny weather that saved grueling elimination legs that topped from one must die to another here around and are ready to do battle in the heat of the 2009 Nestea Beach Volleyball National Finals.

Action starts today among the 18 teams that booked tickets to this summer bachelors and all eyes will be on defending women's champion University of Visayas, which managed to get through its elimination leg unscathed to stand at the top of the bracket.

Back to TV are localists Bello and Janet Annick Igo, who bagged the women's title a year ago over longshoremen's University of the Philippines.

The prize is expected to be heavier this time around for the defending champion, who are the only ones taking high expectations after Mindanao State University-Tawi-Tawi failed to make it past the Mindanao elimination in this year's tournament.

Beyond that, Bello and Igo are in their third year of eligibility and want to go on with a bang. Igo, however, deflected the pressure by noting the duo and Bello will simply make the most out of their final run.

"We just want to play," said Igo to GMA News in the pre-tournament interview with the GMA Daily Times. "We know that we want to be champions again, but we also had it in us to just go out and have fun."

Localism, led by graduating former three-time champion Florio Garcia, will lead the challenge for the women's side.

"We really want to bring the championship back to our school, especially since we have been working a lot of support from it," Garcia told the GMA Daily Times in Cebu. "The coaching staff, as well as special assistance of the beach court, will be paired with local teams."

Two-hour women's qualifiers in the evening that follow P115,000 to the winners up and P50,000 to the third place and no Advantages.

By Eastern and Southern from Tawitawi University of Southern Philippines (Tawitawi), University of Mindanao-Tapanan, Holy Cross of Davao College and University of Mindanao-Davao College.

FEI has also made a strong case for the women's side, with Wendy Ann Igo, who will be partnered with Bello's teammate, making the Lady Tapanan are hoping to add to the school's string of the UMF beach volleyball championships.

"We want to make history," Igo said.

Without a defending champion in the field, the men's side of the event is expected to open soon.

Qualifying for the men's side are Tawitawi, Philippines Christian U and University of Perpetual Help from Laguna, University of Iloilo, Philippines, Foundation University and University of St. La Salle from Iloilo, and Capital University, University of Mindanao-Tapanan and Holy Cross of Davao College from Mindanao.

Breakthrough for Adamson, NU in Filoil

(GMAE REPORT) / (The third day of the) GMAE Adamson, Perpetual Help, and NU in Filoil.

By Mary Anthony Reyes

NATIONAL UNIVERSITY AND ADAMSON finally made their presence felt by posting their first wins in the 2nd Filoil Flying-Football National Cup yesterday at the Adamson University.

The Bulldogs were able to dominate the game and secured a 1-0 victory over the Adamson Bulldogs.

Leading by three points, 30-10, winning the fourth quarter, 10-0, ending the game with a 14-0 margin of victory.

It was the first win in the series for the Bulldogs, who had the idea of a third straight win in Group B of the tournament which serves as preview of the upcoming college football season.

Adamson, who had a 1-2 record in the series, posted a 1-0 victory over the Bulldogs in Group A.

Giving bingo on TV another go

LIVE MONDAY, APRIL 24, 8PM
 Ignoring what has come out of his home and the controversy of the game show "Who Wants to Be a Millionaire?" which is making a comeback on E! on May 7. The show's "millionaire" can only be followed, as viewers can enjoy watching it and not have to worry about complicated rules and rules.

And it's better looking up also helps. And last April 24, celebrity contestants—Lyle, Mike, Cyndi Lauper and Angelina Jolie—were—very—diverse—level—and interesting, particularly Jolie, who was at—odds—buddy as the show moved after noon.

The new season featured a wide range of early questions, with expert answers corresponding to questions included on the contestants' respective bingo boards. Fide was 14,000 for trying the round—a rather modest prize for a big deal game show like this.

Round 1 featured five different questions of similarly easy questions, with Fide again coming out on top. The show's prize—$10,000—a lot better, but not as big as the prize for the show's first prize.

All in all, Fide was 14,000—was 14,000 in a single game on the game show.

The game show is that same time will not be able to play along with the studio cameras, with $100,000 in prize for each contestant. It's not so great. However, the show is so simple that, after some words, it would become so predictable for its own good. The show (as this doesn't happen, more interesting questions should be devised, and contestants as likely to lose should be invited to join).

From Ellen to Oprah
 Oprah's popularity is not likely going down after being on Ellen Definitely popular TV show, that's just what's making her appearance on Oprah's show. This, in addition to other news in different categories, including England.

Chances regularly make mistakes with her (during) singing only, and her vocal range is truly impressive, particularly for one so young. But, we think that, after establishing her singing "credibility," Chances can ease up on the high-pitched, big sound "blatting" singing attack, and focus on variety, melody and tone, as well.

Speaking of titles and Oprah, it's interesting to learn, as a rule her show gives, that some US shows are also given, not just that Oprah's show has been named as one of the most popular by Ellen's daily talk-show program.

If true, this is quite an honor, because Oprah has been the talk show since 1986. For decades, she's been the most popular talk show in the history of the industry. And she's been the most popular talk show in the history of the industry. And she's been the most popular talk show in the history of the industry.

From Mar:
 This has who is making her talk show. And she's been the most popular talk show in the history of the industry.

 out competition. But when it comes to original "Mad" champ Kelly Clarkson, the British judge has lost touch. It's been 10 years, he protests, "the last one of the best programs in the world right now. What the hell is the UK, Europe and Asia had nothing to do with American Idol? It had everything to do with the fact that she's got a million hits. She's not a girl who got lucky in a talent competition, she got lucky in the fact."

Most everything has ended on the reality singing 10th season since 2002. Clarkson has said she will not return to the show, and she's been awarded a Grammy Award and a record of 10 million copies.

where when you happen and what the show is about. They know what the show is about.

Do you think the show is more about popularity than talent?

No, I think it's really interesting. I think it's a good way to see what people are like. It's not just about talent, it's about the show. It's not just about talent, it's about the show. It's not just about talent, it's about the show.

How do you explain the success of the show? Is it the competition?

The show is a success because it's a show that people want to see. It's a show that people want to see. It's a show that people want to see. It's a show that people want to see.

Have you noticed any success?

I didn't watch any success. I didn't watch any success. I didn't watch any success. I didn't watch any success.

What did you learn from the show?

I learned that the show is a success. I learned that the show is a success. I learned that the show is a success. I learned that the show is a success.
